For some reason he received no definite reply from the French government. It was reported M. Rodin was greatly displeased and contemplated going to Rome to live.

MYSTERY

Again Surrounds the Whereabouts of Famous Mexican Bandit, Villa

ALMOST WITH CAVALRY'S GRASP

Desperado Slipped Through Net Enclosing Him

AND COVERS HIS TRAIL

Mexican Reports That Villa and Another Band of His Followers Were Moving Upon Chihuahua City to Stir Up Revolt In Carranza's Garrison—No Definite News Available.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Laredo, Texas, April 3.—Military authorities at Neuvo Laredo, opposite here, declared today the reported direction of Colonel Cano's forces in Chihuahua was untrue. They said the Chihuahua forces were loyal and were "working indefatigably for the apprehension of Villa."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

El Paso, April 3.—Francisco Villa again has become the man of mystery. Almost within the grasp of the American cavalry after the battle of Guerrero, the bandit was reported today to have slipped the net closing about him and to have covered the trail of his flight. Mexican officials in Juarez sought information of the brigands whereabouts but the telegraph wires brought no definite word.

Mexican reports had it that Villa and another band of his followers were moving on Chihuahua City with the intention of getting the garrison of the de facto government there to revolt and join him against the Americans. These reports, brought here by travelers, were scouted by Mexican consul Garcia.

While the bandit's main command was scattered at the battle of Guerrero it is believed here that Villa has several other large bodies of men disposed at convenient positions in the continental divide and that Col. Dodd and his American troops may come in contact with them at any time. While the search for Villa continues, Col Dodd will seek to destroy armed bodies of Villa forces which are a constant menace to the line of American communication.

There is no light on the recent operations of the Carranza forces against the Villa bandits. General Bertani has sent no report to the Juarez headquarters for several days and what assistance the troops of the de facto government is giving Gen. Pershing and his men is not known.

Traffic over the Mexican Northwestern railway is becoming more active since the advent of the American expeditionary forces in the Casas Grandes and Madera districts.

The passengers have included many Americans returning to the interior after flight to the border following the Columbus, N. M., massacre.

Reports from Mexican sources in the interior received here today asserted Francisco Villa was headed toward Chihuahua City and that his emissaries were attempting to influence the garrison of that town from their allegience to the de facto government.

Nothing was said in the reports of Villa's alleged injuries, an omission which helped to conform the opinion already freely expressed on the border that the bandit's wounds were an invention of his own, reported with the intention of deceiving his pursuers.

The absence of any official news from the front since the defeat of the Villa band new Guerrero by Colonel Dodd last Wednesday, has considerably dashed the hopes of those who saw in the victory the beginning of the end of the bandit's career. At the same time, it is pointed out that the American cavalrymen have a formidable task before them in searching the barren mountain wastes where Villa is supposed to have taken refuge. The fact that no further fighting has been reported is taken as an indication that the bandits have been effectually scattered by the American troopers.

As usual, in the lack of definite information, the border is again a hive of rumors of an alarming and sensational character. The majority of the rumors are based on stories brought from the interior by Mexicans and the few Americans who straggle in here by ones and twos daily. The most circumstantial of these stories at present deals with the reported defection of Colonel Cano, the Carranza commander at Namiquipa.

Cano is the chief lieutenant of General Luis Herrera, who was supposed to have declared against Carranza several days ago, a report that was vigorously denied by the officials of the de facto government.

The main facts in support of Cano's revolt are that he has not been heard from for more than a week and that he is known" to have expressed strong anti-American sentiments on several occasions. Like

Capt. Von der Goltz, German secret agent and confessed aide to Capt. Von Papen, was recently brought to this country to confess his share in the plots to invade Canada from the United States. Von der Goltz was captured in England, whither he made his way from the United States on a false passport. He arrived in New York in custody of Detective Sergeant Brust of Scotland Yard.

Correspondence Seized by Detectives Divulges Plans on Welland Canal

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, April 3.—A quantity of correspondence belonging to Horst von Der Goltz, the alleged German spy who has said he was the directing head of the plan to blow up the Welland canal, has been seized by Scotland Yard detectives and will be made public shortly by the British foreign office, according to an announcement today by department of justice officials.

It is understood that the correspondence contains details of plans to blow up the Welland canal and of invasion of Canada from the United States. The letters now in possession of the British authorities are said to contain the names of persons in this country hitherto unmentioned.

It was this correspondence, it was said that enabled the British authorities to obtain a full statement from Von Der Goltz as to his activities in the United States. While Von Der Goltz's declaration in New York recently to department of justice agents have covered main features of his work in this country, it is the opinion of officials that other details will be disclosed with the publication of the correspondence.

Officials here also have been informed that the correspondence shows the names of those who aided Von Der Goltz in obtaining an American passport in Baltimore under the alias of Bridgeman Taylor and that names of other persons who might be called upon, if necessary to assist in obtaining other passports probabil will be disclosed in the correspondence.

POLICE EXPECT TO CAPTURE MAN WHO GAVE HUDSON AID.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, April 3.—One of the three men named by Clarence Reginald Hudson, alias Ernest Schiller, as his associates in an alleged conspiracy to blow with dynamite the Cunard line steamship Pannonia, is still at liberty, but the police say they expect to arrest him before night. Hudson, who captured the British ship Matoppa at sea and awed the crew by a display of revolvers, will be arraigned in court in connection with the Pannonia plot as soon as the case against him is completed

George Haller and Otto Milleder, arrested last night and held under minor charges as Hudson's fellow conspirators admitted today that they had frequent conferences with Hudson concerning his plans to blow up British vessels

SERIOUS FIRE NOW BURNING IN NEW YORK

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, April 3.—A serious fire broke out in the downtown section of the city early this afternoon. At two o'clock it had destroyed two five-story buildings on Beekman street occupied by paper concerns and had spread to an old 15-story skyscraper at the corner of Nassua and Beekman and threatened it with destruction. Three alarms were turned in.

Shortly after 2 o'clock all tenants were ordered out of the twenty-story sky scraper known as the Nassau-Beekman building and occupied by the New York Sun. The building was at that time seriously threatened by the flames.

The fire was one of the most spectacular witnessed in the downtown section in many years. Roofs of skyscrapers were crowded with spectators and huge crowds jammed the streets requiring all available police reserves in the lower part of the city to handle them.

Fire department officials announced at 2:30 that the fire was under control and would be confined to the two destroyed buildings with some damage to the building at Nassau and Beekman streets. Most of the tenants in the Sun building stayed in their offices in spite of the danger. It was roughly estimated that the damage would amount to $200,000.

Miss Maggie Corius of Maple avenue who underwent an operation for goiter at Grant Hospital in Columbus, has returned to her home in this city.

U. S. CAVALRY AGAIN LOCATE VILLA FORCES

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

San Antonio, April 3.—The detachment of Villa's forces defeated at Guerrero by American troops last Wednesday was located yesterday near Bachineva, northeast of Guerrero, according to General Pershing, who reported today to General Funston. His report was sent Sunday.

The remainder of the dispersed forces he said, was scatered through the region northeast of Guerrero and American troops are continuing their pursuit. He has not located Villa, himself, and added that his intelligence department had given much misleading information and securing reliable guides was becoming difficult.

REPORTED THAT GAS CASE HAS BEEN DECIDED

A report was received here today that the Newark natural gas case involving the disposition of the escrow fund of $190,000 had been decided by the United States supreme court and that the court had granted the motion to advance the case and had overruled the motion to affirm the judgment of the lower courts without a hearing and dismiss the appeal. This means that the case will be heard upon its merits at an early date.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

London, April 3, 11:52 a m.—Details of last night's Zeppelin raids over eastern Scotland and the northeastern and eastern countries of England have not been given out officially, but from such reports as have been received it is evident the Zeppelins covered a wider area than during the visitations of the two previous nights. Trains and street cars were held up and lights were dimmed for several hours. The Zeppelins were about from 9 p. m. until after 1 a. m.

GERMAN OFFICIAL REPORT OF ATTACK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

For a period of one and one-half hours explosives and incediary bombs were thrown on blast furnaces, large iron works and industrial establishments on the south bank of the Tees and on the port establishments of Middlesbrough and Sunderland. Large explosions, fire and demolitions were caused and the successful effects of the attack were clearly noticeable.

"Notwithstanding heavy shelling of our airships they suffered neither losses nor damage."

MASSES

Of Troops Still Are Being Hurled Against Verdun Defenses

TENACIOUS OPPOSITION OF FRENCH

According to Paris, Results In a Check

FIGHTING IS DESPERATE

In the Caillette Wood Which Germans Penetrated Yesterday—French City of Dunkirk On Straits Suffers Zeppelin Attack—Condensed War News of the Day.

Heavy masses of troops are still being hurled by the Germans against the defense of Verdun. The French are offering tenacious resistance and according to Paris have succeeded in pressing back the crown prince's forces between Vaux and Douaumont.

The gain claimed is in the northern part of the Caillette wood, which the Germans penetrated yesterday.

Desperate fighting continued there all last night and the general result was favorable to the French, today's bulletin asserts, additional ground in the northern part of the wood being reclaimed.

Zeppelins were over eastern Scotland and the northeastern and eastern countries of England from 9 o'clock last night, until after 1 o'clock this morning in the third great raid by the German air fleet in as many nights.

The latest raid is known to have been over a wide area, but details as to damage and casualties are lacking. In Friday and Saturday night's raids 59 persons were killed and 166 wounded.

Berlin's account of the Saturday and Sunday night raids declares that blast furnaces, farge iron works and industrial plants at Tees and on the port establishments of Middlesborough and Sunderland, were hit, inflicting heavy damaage and causing explosions to occur and fires to break out.

The French city of Dunkirk, on the straits of Dover, also has suffered a Zeppelin attack, an airship dropping three bombs which killed two civilians.

Sinking of the British steamer Perth, of 1,799 tons, with the loss of six members of her crew, is announced from London.

The German government has promised Ambassador Gerard a prompt reply to his inquiry in regard to the destruction of the cross-channel steamer Sussex and other vessels on which Americans were endangered.

Toledo Asks Receiver for Street Railroad Company; First Step to End the Strike

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Toledo, April 3.—The city of Toledo at noon today applied for appointment of a receiver for the Toledo Railways and Light company. The application was filed following a futile conference this morning of traction officials and representatives of the car men's union in an effort to settle the street car situation. No street cars will be in operation until the court acts. This may require several days

The city's application is based on the ground that the company is not giving service; that the citizens are handicapped and business seriously affected.

The application is in the form of a cross bill in the old case of Henry L. Doherty, Frank W. Frueauf, of New York and others against the Toledo Railways and Light company. The original suit was filed Sept. 12, 1914. It was brought to restrain the city from enforcing the three cent fare ordinance passed at that time by the city council. Injunction was also asked at that time to restrain the city from interfering with the company in withdrawal of its cars from the streets in event of an attempt to enforce this ordinance. Both injunctions are still in effect.

It is considered unlikely that any attempt will be made to operate the cars by strike breakers under federal court order. Every effort will be made for peaceable settlement, it was said.

The first public demonstration by locked out union car men occurred at noon today when 700 men paraded through the downtown district, carrying banners and mottoes.

Trainmen of the Toledo & Western railway, a Henry L. Doherty property, may press their demands for a wage increase as a result of the Toledo situation, it was said today. L. G. Griffing of Cleveland, representing the interurban trainmen, was here today and will confer with Doherty regarding the demands, it was stated

Henry L. Doherty, upon whom rests almost entirely settlement of the street car tie-up, may have to return to New York for a surgical operation.

Physicians early this morning announced that perhaps Mr. Doherty will be unable to leave his bed in a local hospital for several days. Meantime settlement will be deferred.

The conference was set for 3 o'clock this morning following postponement of one called for Sunday afternoon owing to Mr. Doherty's illness.

Mayor Charles M. Milroy announced last night that for the time being he will reconsider his ultimatum to ask for a receiver for the Toledo Railways & Light company, the concern which operates the Toledo street cars. The mayor declared he did not wish to take drastic action until the New York magnate had recovered sufficiently to permit him to take part in the proceeding.

Mr. Doherty is suffering from a chronic ear infection, physicians say. The tie-up resulted when the street car men reported for work wearing union buttons. The company refused to permit the conductors and motormen to go to work unless the buttons were removed. This they refused to do. Then all cars were sent into the barns where they have been quartered since. The first step in an effort to induce crews of incoming interurbans to enter the strike in sympathy with the local men will be made today when ten organizers will be sent out over as many lines.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Cleveland, April 3.—Investigation of the wreck at Amherst, O., in the early morning of March 29 at a cost of 28 lives and injury to more than 40 persons, was to be continued today by representatives of the interstate commerce commission and of the Ohio Utilities commission.

The federal and state investigators said they were ignoring the action of D. C. Moon, general manager of the New York Central railroad in placing blame for the wreck upon Herman Hess, engineer of the second section of train No. 86. The investigation today would be along the lines of further testing of the signal apparatus they said and for this purpose another visit would be made to Amherst tomorrow. Denial was made today that Engineer Hess has been discharged as announced yesterday by some of the railroad officials. The official statement today says that Hess "remains under suspension" but that final action has not been taken by the constituted authorities.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Toledo, April 3.—"It is not the job I am thinking of," declared Engineer Herman Hess this morning, after he had been informed that responsibility for the New York Central wreck at Amherst, O., last Wednesday had been placed on him by General Manager D. C. Moon. "What I care most for is what the people all over the country will say if the blame is placed on me.

"I told everything I knew at the hearing," Hess continued. "I told the truth and I would not change a thing I said for all the money in the world. What my eyes saw my heart believed. The Lord told me what to say and I said it."

Can Bowser Outlast Kilonis in Match Next Friday Night? His Friends Believe He Can

Wrestling fans all agree that Bowser's match with Kilonis set for Friday night of this week at the Auditorium, will develop into a battle of endurance and that Bowser's chance to win lies in the question "can he outlast Kilonis?" Bowser's friends believe he can.

The Newark man has won his championship and retained it on his ability to withstand punishment and wear down his opponent. Newark wrestling fans have been educated in previous matches, to believe that Bowser can outstay any man under the heavyweight class. He has done so in the past and his friends have come to have faith in his endurance.

Almost without exception, local fans pronounce last Friday night's match the most exciting of any yet staged. And with this week's match slated to go to a finish, they believe it will prove still more exciting.

"BRAINY" BOWERS IS "TOM BOWSER" SAYS NEWARK MAN

In a letter to the Advocate, a former Newark man now in Cincinnati, solved the mystery as to the identity of "Tom Bowser" who wrestled in Cincinnati last Thursday night. The man who was playing on Bowser's reputation and popularity is Fred Bowers, known here as "Brainy" Bowers. He is a boxer and wrestler in an amateur way, and appeared in a preliminary in one of the Bowser matches nearly three months ago.

The Newark man said that Bowers claimed the announcement of the bout made a mistake in his name and that he would attempt to have it straightened out, but when the wrestlers were announced, the Newark boy was presented as "Tom Bowser."

Some Cincinnati fans might have been fooled and probably were though one paper made an effort to straighten out the matter and announced that Paul Bowser the champion would not appear in the match.

Herrera. Cano has been a bitter enemy of Villa, and it is not supposed that if he has deserted the standard of the First Chief, he has joined the fugitive bandit, but that he has simply declared himself against any co-operation with the soldiers of the United States.

A good deal of significance is attached to the fact that while General Gavira insists that he is convinced of Cano's loyalty, he admits that he has had no communications from him or from his immediate superior General Bertani for some time. Up to a week ago, Gen. Gavira claims that he was in receipt of daily telegrams from both Bertani and Cano.

There is something of a mystery attached to the movement of Mexican troops at points close to the border. It is known that large bodies of Carranza's soldiers have been moved from camps in the interior to various places within 20 miles of the international line, but no explanation has been given of these maneuvers beyond a general intimation that the de facto government is anticipating possible action by the followers of Felix Diaz, who is now considered the head of the Cientifico party.

Most of the stories brought from the interior are contradictory, especially those from Mexican sources. American refugees agree generally in describing conditions as alarming, but they invariably refuse to be quoted on the ground that they expect to return to Mexico and are afraid of arousing prejudices against them. Their stories are offset by the fact that several of their number who fled across the border after the Columbus massacre, have returned to their former homes convinced that they have nothing to fear.

COMBING MOUNTAINS FOR TRACE OF VILLA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Camp of General Pershing, April 2.—(By aeroplane to Colunia Dublan and by radio to Columbus, N. M., April 3.)—The mountains of Guerrero are being combed thoroughly for Villa by the American forces, but nothing has been learned as to his whereabouts other than that captured bandits said he was being carried further into the mountains in his jolting coach.

General Pershing announced today that troops of the infantry are to be used for mountain climbing, co-operating with the cavalrymen who have borne the brunt of the five days' pursuit of Villa. The infantrymen have been going through hardening preparation in hill climbing marches for about two weeks and their officers say they are in excellent physical trim.

The troops were closely behind Villa yesterday, entering the village of —— shortly after he had fled from it. It was suspected that he might be hidden in one of its huts and every precaution was taken to effect the capture. Two squadrons of cavalry entered the village from outside simultaneously.

There have been a number of minor skirmishes in the vicinity of the village, two scouts reported that they encountered two Villa men on its outskirts yesterday. They fought for five minutes without casualty.

American air scouts are now flying over the entire Villa territory and carrying dispatches from the front to the field base and field headquarters. More trucks also have been able to penetrate the mountain waste almost as far as the territory occupied by the cavalry under Colonel George A. Dodd.

NO TRACE OF DIAZ.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, April 3.—Latest reports from commanders of warships in Mexican waters say that no trace of Felix Diaz reported to be in Mexico at the head of a new revolution, had been found.

The protocol with the Carranza government, designed to cover all questions relating to the hunt for Villa is expected to be concluded during the week.

LAKE DISTRICT VOTES "DRY" BY NINE MAJORITY

Jacksontown, O., April 3.—Licking township voted on the wet and dry question Saturday, the latter faction winning by a majority of nine votes. The drys cast 123 votes and the wets 114. The election was hotly contested by both sides and there were a number of challenges by the drys.

It was necessary to call members of the county board of supervisors shortly before the closing of the polls, one of the judges, M. J. Rees and Clerk Michael Sachs responding. The complaint was made that eight men had applied for ballots and were refused by the presiding judge, W. H. Orr. They then asked that testimony be taken regarding their qualifications to the right of franchise. This was refused them and the county election officials were called. Messrs. Rees and Sachs of the county board informed the election officials that they would have to comply with the law in taking a man's testimony regarding his qualifications as an elector. After getting those instructions the officials then took the testimony. One out of the eight was allowed to vote and the other seven were refused.

It is said that the eight men were employed at the lake by those interested in wanting the township voted wet and that the election officials were convinced that they would not make the township their future place of residence as required by law. It is said that the wets may contest the election and carry the matter into the court.

WET AND DRY VOTE TODAY IN THIRTEEN MICHIGAN COUNTIES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Detroit, April 3.—A bitter struggle waged in Michigan for weeks between "wet" and "dry" forces, reached its climax today when voters in 13 counties cast their ballots at local option elections. Many of these counties were storm centers over the prohibition issue at previous elections.

Of the counties voting, Ingham, Roscommon, Wexford and Mecosta are now without saloons; Jackson, Lake, Ogemaw, Manistee, Clare, Losco, Schoolcraft, Delta and Baraga are in the "wet" column.

In 1914, Ingham county which contains Lansing, the state capital, went dry by a mojority of 1108 and Jackson county, with the city of Jackson, voted wet by a majority of more than 1000. Much of the interest in the election today centered on the fight on these counties.

WILSON ONLY ONE MONTANA DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE ON TICKET.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Helena, Mont., April 3.—There will be but four names of candidates on the Montana preferential primary ballot April 21, the time of filing having expired today. The candidates are President Wilson, Democrat; Senator A. B. Cummins of Iowa, and Edward R. Woods of Philadelphia, Republicans, and A. L. Benson, of New York, Socialist.

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, telegraphed withdrawal of his name. Colonel Roosevelt also refused to permit his name to be used.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO SPEAK TO MEN'S CLUB.

Trinity Men's Club has secured the attorney general of the state to speak before them on Tuesday evening of this week. Attorney General Turner has heretofore declined all invitations to make public addresses because of the great pressure of work in his office. While his work is still very heavy, he found time to speak to the men of Newark. He is a ready and forceful speaker with a message.

The subject of his address is a timely one in these critical days of our country's existence as a nation. He will speak upon "Public Duty."

Dinner will be served as usual at 6:15 in the parish house to be followed by a social smoker and this in turn by the address of the evening.

This will be the final meeting of the club until next autumn. The men are asked to send in their names early in order that adequate provision may be made. Notify anyone of the following: Edward Kibler Sr., George Pickup, Roderic Jones or Rev. L. P. Franklin.

Although there was a falling off of 14,000,000 gallons in the consumption of whisky and of 6,000,000 barrels of beer, the nation's drink bill for 1915 is computed at $2,500,000,000.

COUNCIL IS FAVORABLE TO CLEAN-UP

In all probability council tonight will find some way to provide money for the spring clean-up campaign, though the city is embarrassed by lack of funds, according to statements of several councilmen this morning. The only objection offered by any member of council was the feeling which exists in some quatrers that the privilege of free drayage for rubbish is abused by those residents of the city amply able to pay their own hauling bills.

It is understood that an ordinance will be presented for council's consideration to provide funds for the purpose. It is said the general fund from which the money has been secured in the past does not contain enough money available to provide the $500 which is said to be needed. It is the belief of the councilmen after conferring with the city solicitor, that short time notes can be issued pending the collection of regular taxes. Four of the members of council seen by the Advocate favored the clean-up campaign as a general proposition, the money proposition being the only hitch in the program. It is believed that the councilmen will urge that those in charge of the campaign instruct drivers of wagons not to haul away tree trimmings, a winter's supply of ashes, or any other waste matter which is regarded as an abuse of the privilege.

It is also likely that some members of council will have something to say regarding the fire trucks at headquarters.

RECOVERED HIS WALLET WITH A ROLL OF BILLS

Dr. J. T. Lewis believes in the honesty of mankind. Incidentally he is shaking hands with himself and patting little "lucky stone" which he carries in his left hand trousers pocket for he added the sum of $175 to his bank account today.

About 9 o'clock this morning the doctor reached into his right hand hip pocket to get out his pocket book so that he might make change for a patient. There was nothing doing and then he began to frisk himself in a lively manner and started a search of his rooms. There was no discovery to bring a smile of joy to the doctor's face and he began calling up his home in the Jetlew flats. He asked his mother to institute a search of his Sunday trousers and she informed him that they had gone to the dry cleaner's.

The doctor immediately grabbed his hat and started for the dye works and upon his arrival there was handed an envelope containing his packetbook with its contents intact. They had just found it and had called up his office while he was on his way to the plant. Cigars and soda waters have been ordered for the clerks.

Doctor Lewis several years ago drove to the Big Spring south of town and left his machine a few minutes to quench his thirst. The next morning he missed his pocket book which at that time had $140 in it. He drove out to the spring and there sticking in the mud was his wallet. He attributes his good fortune to a little "lucky stone" which was presented to him by a pretty French-Canadian palmist at Montreal, Canada, several years ago, after he had purchased a grip full of souvenirs. He states that hereafter he will use a safety pin and tie a string around his finger whenever he changes his trousers.

CHERRY VALLEY IS VOTING ON $16,000 ISSUE

A special election is being held today in the Cherry Valley sub-district No. 7 for a $16,000 bond issue, which in case the election carries will be used to build a new school house on the northeast corner of West Main and Twenty-first streets.

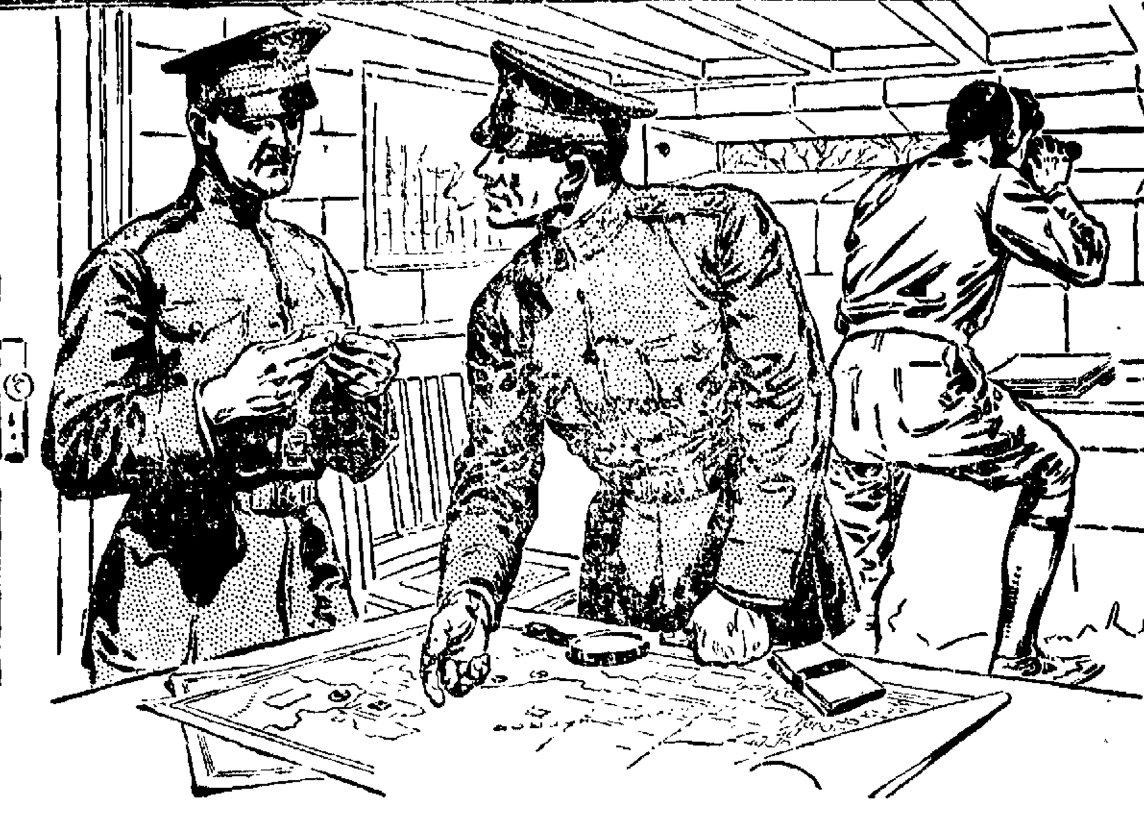

The resolution for the election provides that the money shall be used to construct a new brick school building of at least four rooms. Residents of the south precinct are voting at the township house in Second street and those residing in the north precinct are voting in the convention room of the court house. The polls opened at 5:30 o'clock this morning and will remain open until 5:30 this evening.

There are about 400 voters in the Cherry Valley district and owing to the fact that a great deal of interest is being taken in the election it is thought that a large vote will be polled.

Two special elections in the same district were held last May on a proposition to sell $12,000 worth of bonds for a new school building and it was defeated each time. The first time it lost by 13 votes and the second time by 27. In case the proposition loses today it will be up to the county board of education to decide whether another special election can be held.

The Strange Case of MARY PAGE

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's leading man implicates Langdon. How Mary disappeared from the scene of the crime is a mystery. Brandon tells of a strange hand print he saw on Mary's shoulder. Further evidence shows that horror of drink produces temporary insanity in Mary. The defense is "repressed psychosis." Witnesses described Mary's flight from her intoxicated father and her father's suicide.

THE NURSE'S STORY

LANGDON, opening the door of the witness-room, glanced in. A sharp little frown of anxiety etched two fine vertical lines between his eyes; but at sight of the tall, trimly clad woman talking to the doctor a smile of relief replaced the scowl. He came forward eagerly.

"Thank goodness you were able to get here," he said, taking her hand in both of his. "It means so much to us to have you; but I didn't like to insist, or call the law to my aid. How is the recalcitrant patient?"

"Oh, the patient is doing splendidly, thanks," she answered with a smile,

"The patient is doing splendidly."

"but I should have come anyway, duty or no duty. How is Miss Page bearing up?"

"Very bravely, all things considered," said Langdon; but now his tone was grave with a hint of wistfulness.

Another day of the trial was begun. As on the day before, so fraught with terrible revelations, it was Mrs. Page who was the first witness

"I have only a few questions, Mrs. Page," said Langdon gently. "How long after your husband's death was it that you learned the whereabouts of your daughter?"

"It may have been an hour—or perhaps less. A letter came from Philip and said, 'Don't worry. Mary is safe in Dr. Jamison's home. For obvious reasons I advise you not to come here till later. Will then explain all.' I went and got my hat and cloak to go to her, but James Pollock drove up in his automobile just as I was going down the path to the gate. He said he hated to disturb me at such a time, but that I must remember that Mary was his fiancee, and he was getting tired of Mr. Langdon's attitude. 'I am the one who should have taken care of her last night,' he said, 'and I demand that you immediately stop Langdon's interference.' I told him that my poor child had suffered enough; that I would not in any way interfere in the future. In fact, I—I blamed him for the awful tragedy of the night before. It seemed to me that but for him my daughter would be safe and well and my husband living, and I told him so. He said that if I would not deal with Langdon, he would, and that he would expect Mary to keep her word to him. Then he left. At the gate he met a boy coming in with a note, and after some talk, he gave the boy some money and took the note himself. He tore it open and read it; then, crumpling it in his hand as if angry, he flung it aside and got into his motor. As soon as he was out of sight I ran out and picked up the note. It—it was addressed to me, and it said: 'I am taking Mary to Dr. Foster's sanatorium outside the city. She bears up bravely under the news of her father's death. Will call later. Philip.' The next I remember is lying on the bed in my own room and hearing our doctor say, 'It's all too much for her. I wish to God she had some relatives or someone to help her.'"

"That is all, Mrs. Page, unless the State has some questions to ask." His voice rose interrogatively, but the prosecutor shook his head.

"Dr. Angus Foster!"

Only the fear of the dire threat of the judge to "clear the room if there was any disturbance" held the spectators silent at the sound of that name, for Dr. Foster had played his role in many another court-room, while his fame was a byword all over the world. Kings of Wall Street owed their grip upon affairs to his care when mental breakdowns seemed inevitable.

He was not a tall man, but the dignity of his carriage, and the way he held his shoulders, lent him an appearance of great height as he took his place in the witness-box and held up his right hand to take the oath.

"Dr. Foster, you specialize in diseases of the brain, do you not?"

"I do. In both mental and nervous ills."

"Have you a sanatorium just outside this city?"

"I have."

"Have you ever seen the defendant before?"

"I have seen Miss Page on several occasions. The first time was when I saw Mr. Langdon, whom I had known for some years, drive up with a girl beside him in the motor. She seemed to be asleep or only partially conscious. She opened her eyes as I came up, and got unsteadily to her feet, and then I noticed that her heavy veil hid the fact that her face was livid from some great suffering. After we had given her into the charge of Nurse Walton I took Mr. Langdon into my office, where he told me briefly of Miss Page's attack of madness, and the incidents that had led up to it. While Mr. Langdon was still talking I saw an automobile drive furiously up to my gate and a man leap out. My exclamation drew Langdon to the window and he cried sharply, 'My God! that's James Pollock!'"

"Did you already know who he was?"

"Yes, I had heard of him from various men who had been my patients, and Mr. Langdon had already told me that Mr. Pollock was engaged to Miss Page, and also something of how that engagement had been brought about."

"Was Mr. Pollock brought to your office?"

"No. I went out into the hall to meet him and took him into the general reception-room. I told him Miss Page's condition necessitated absolute rest for at least twenty-four hours. He became insulting and abusive and accused me of keeping Miss Page a prisoner, so I decided the best thing to do was to let the young lady herself decide whether or not she wanted to see him."

"Did you go at once to Miss Page?"

"No, I left Mr. Pollock in the reception-room and returned to my office, where I apprised Mr. Langdon of the situation. Together we went to the room assigned to Miss Page. She was in bed, and seemed comfortable and calm. While I was talking to her, however, finding out a little of her nervous condition, Mr. Langdon, who had been sitting near the door, gave a sharp exclamation and darted out into the hall. Miss Walton the nurse went to the door after him, but before she reached it we could all hear the sounds of a loud altercation. When I reached the scene myself, I found Mr. Langdon barring the way and Mr. Pollock attempting to force himself past to get to Miss Page's room. He declared it to be his right to be with her and said that Mr. Langdon was an interloper, a kidnapper, and a great many other things."

"Did you interfere?"

"I did. It took me some time to quiet Mr. Pollock, but he returned to the reception-room eventually, and Mr Langdon and I hurried back to Miss Page who was very much excited and was crying out that she did not want to see 'James'—or anyone except her mother and Mr. Langdon. She quieted down when we came in, especially after she had been reassured that no one would disturb her."

"Did you give any orders to that effect?"

"I did. I told Miss Walton to sit where she could watch the door, and that if James Pollock made any attempt to come down the hall she was at once to ring for help and bar him out."

"Did Miss Walton seem to consider the order unusual?"

"Well, not exactly that. She seemed agitated and upset by the name, but evaded my question as to whether she knew him. However, as I had always found her trustworthy and a splendid nurse, I paid but little attention to her excitement."

"You say you paid but little attention to her excitement. Did you have any inkling as to what might have caused that agitation?"

"Not at the time, but later when Miss Walton told me what had happened, admitting—"

"May it please the court," interrupted the Prosecutor, leaping to his feet, "Dr. Foster is retailing hearsay, and I object to the question of my learned colleague." There was a tinge of satisfaction in his voice at being able to interrupt the famous alienist who was said to know as much of law as of medicine, and the doctor flushed with annoyance. But Langdon showed no discomfiture; there was, in fact, a smile of satisfaction curling the corners of his lips as the judge leaned forward and said slowly:

"Strike out the question beginning, 'You say you paid but little attention to her excitement,' and its answer Continue, Mr. Langdon."

"That is all, Dr. Foster," said Langdon promptly, and the District Attorney had only one question:

"When Mary Page was brought to your sanatorium, was she not perfectly sane?"

"Temporarily so, but her nervous condition was such that extreme mental suffering was very evident. We doctors have many definitions of that word 'sane', sir."

"That is all." And as the doctor stepped down from the witness-box with a covert smile, the name of the next witness was called by the bailiff.

This was a new player in the vast drama whose every act was seemingly a fresh tragedy, and the reporters whispered the name among themselves as they bent over their copy, striving to place her among the scores who had been drawn into the net flung by the police and Langdon after the strange murder of James Pollock. Her name slipped from lip to lip through the spectators as well and more than one man in the back of the room stood up to stare when the tall brisk woman came confidently from the witness room and took her place on the stand.

"Miss Gertrude Walton!"

She gave her name with gravity, her age with a smile, and her occupation with pride, as "trained nurse."

"Miss Walton," said Langdon, "you specialize in nervous cases, do you not?"

"I do."

"How long have you been doing that sort of nursing?"

"For twelve years. I began it by—by—nursing my sister through a terrible illness when she seemed likely to lose her reason. I have never forgotten her suffering, and I have specialized in nervous cases ever since."

"Are you attached to the staff at Dr. Foster's sanatorium?"

"I am."

"You have been there a good many years, have you not?"

"Yes."

"When was the first time that you saw the defendant, Mary Page?"

"On the morning when she was brought to the sanatorium for treatment."

"Miss Walton, did you know James Pollock?"

For the first time her quiet confidence forsook her, and a red spot crept

"Mr. Pollock asked me if I was Miss Page's nurse."

into each cheek, and there was a visible hesitation before she answered slowly:

"I had never MET Mr. Pollock, but I had heard a great deal about him. His—his name was very familiar to me."

"Then the first time you saw him was when he came to the sanatorium asking for Miss Page?"

Again there was a hesitation before the answer:

"Yes."

"Will you tell the court, please, what happened after Dr. Foster ordered you to keep James Pollock out of the room of your new patient—Miss Page?"

"I—I felt that I ought to know what he looked like that I might make no mistake, so I went down the hall towards the reception-room. As I reached the door, however, it was opened and Mr. Pollock stepped out. At sight of me he paused, then asked me if I was Miss Page's nurse. I said I was, and when we were in the reception-room, Mr. Pollock told me that he was the fiancee of Miss Page, and that Mr. Langdon was taking advantage of Miss Page's nervous condition to influence her against him. He told me that—that—he would make it well worth my while to help him remove her to another sanatorium which had been selected by her mother, and pointed out the fact that Mrs. Page had not come with her daughter as indicating her dissatisfaction with Dr. Foster's hospital."

"Did you agree to help him?"

A hot flush dyed her cheeks, and her fingers nervously fumbled her gloves as she answered softly:

"Yes."

"What instructions did he give you?"

"He—he told me to give Miss Page a sleeping draught that night, and said that when the hospital was quiet at eleven he would have his automobile outside and if I would let him in, he would carry Miss Page to it, and take her to the other sanatorium. He also asked me if I would take the case, as a private nurse, and when I said yes, he wrote the name down on a piece of paper for me."

"Do you mean," interrupted the judge, "that you were ready to throw up your position with Dr. Foster, and allow one of his patients to be stolen from his sanatorium without investigating the truth of the man's statements?"

"You mean about Mr. Langdon?" she stammered. "Oh—I—I knew that was not true. I—I agreed because of—of a certain plan I had in mind. Then—he—led me to expect that he would pay me well and left."

"Miss Walton, do you recall the name of the sanatorium to which Mr. Pollock wished to take Miss Page?"

"Yes. It was Professor Zellar's sanatorium at Ortonville."

"Did you carry out your plans for that night?"

"No. The plan I had formed miscarried, because of the watchfulness of Mr. Langdon, who unwittingly hindered me."

"I gave Miss Page a sleeping-draught at ten o'clock and then put on my own hat and laid my cloak ready. At eleven I went down to the reception-room and unlocked one of the French windows which was almost immediately opened by Mr. Pollock. He followed me back to the bedroom, and picking up Miss Page whom I had carefully wrapped in blankets he carried her out to his automobile. As soon as he was on the veranda I closed the window and started to run to the front of the house, but I was stopped by Mr. Langdon, who was spending the night at the sanatorium and had already discovered Miss Page's absence. He—he caught me by the arm and demanded to know where she was. I tried to get away—because—because moments were precious just then, but he wouldn't let go and finally I told him that Mr. Pollock had just carried Miss Page off. At that he rushed out of the house and down the drive, and sprang onto the running board of Mr. Pollock's motor, which was just starting up. Mr Pollock struck at him, but he hung on, and kept on fighting till the motor swung around the curve and into the main road, and then the force of the turn flung Mr. Langdon off. By that time the detectives were in the road and fired after the car but it didn't stop—"

"Detectives! What detectives?" Langdon's question snapped like a whip lash.

"Why—why—" she stammered, confused by the sudden interruption. "The ones I sent for. I wanted Mr. Pollock caught in the act of kidnapping Miss Page, but Mr. Langdon held me back too long and prevented my giving the signal agreed upon."

A wave of sound that was the composite exclamation of those in the room swept like a breath of wind through the court and faded to silence, and Langdon asked:

"You had a special reason for wanting David Pollock caught by the police, had you not, Miss Walton?"

"Yes!" she cried, and her voice took on a sudden fierce note of suffering and anger. "I wanted him punished, and I thanked God for the chance that had been put into my hands!"

"Why?"

"Because he ruined my little sister, and left her to die of shame and heartbreak!"

"Your Honor!" It was the prosecutor's voice. "I object to that question and answer. It defames the character of a dead man, and has no bearing upon this case. What is more, it cannot be proved!"

"You are perfectly right," said the Judge sternly. "Let the evidence of the witness be stricken out from the words 'signal agreed upon.'"

Langdon bowed his head submissively, but there was a gleam of triumph in his eyes, for he knew that though the words might be stricken out of the record, they could not so easily be erased from the minds of those who had heard them.

They had, in fact, laid bare another tragedy, and the words of Miss Walton earlier in the day, "I began by nursing my sister through a terrible illness when she seemed likely to lose her reason," gained a poignant meaning, that made more than one juryman move restlessly, and brought a whisper of sympathy from the spectators.

The court clerk monotonously read the corrected evidence and then Langdon, after a moment's thought, said:

"Miss Walton, when your plan miscarried and Mr. Pollock succeeded in carrying off Miss Page, what did you do?"

"I ran back to the hospital veranda where Dr. Foster was standing, having been drawn out by the sound of shots, and told him as quickly as I could what had happened, and where they had taken Miss Page."

"Did he make any comment upon the address you gave him?"

"Yes. He gave a sharp exclamation when I handed it to him and said, 'Great heavens! I've heard of that place—and what I've heard was anything but good.' At that one of the detectives took it and when he had read it he whistled and said, 'Zellar's! My God, we'd better follow pretty quick, if you want to rescue the girl. We've had our eye on that joint for some time.' At that Dr. Foster said, 'We will follow quickly, for my car can be here in a minute.'"

"Will you tell the court, please, exactly what happened when you reached the sanatorium?"

"Dr. Foster stopped the automobile at some distance down the road and put out the lights. Then we all slipped into the grounds as quietly as possible and the four men hid in the bushes while I went boldly up to the door and rang the bell. I asked to see either Dr. Zellar or Mr. Pollock, and was taken into an office where both men were sitting. Mr. Pollock seemed relieved to see me, as he said Miss Page was very much excited and had been sobbing and screaming, but he was obviously suspicious of me. I—I—told him, however, that I had had a fierce battle with Langdon to hold him back from pursuing them, and that it was he who had fired the shots; so at last he seemed convinced and took me up to Miss Page's room. She was hysterical and feverish and clung to me desperately. She was sitting on the edge of her bed, in a narrow room whose windows were heavily barred, while the door had not only a lock but two bolts as well."

"I'll get her out of here, if I have to kill you."

"Was Miss Page locked in when you got to her room?"

"Yes, and Mr. Pollock would have locked us both in, had it not been that I protested, saying that if Miss Page grew violent in the night I must be free to get out and call for help But even though he left the door unlocked he lingered just outside for a long time, and I was unable either to soothe Miss Page or give the signal, for fear of arousing his suspicions. At last I heard him go downstairs, and I told Miss Page that Dr. Foster and Mr Langdon were outside, and when she had sunk back crying with relief I carried the lamp to the window and gave the signal. Then I started down stairs to let the men in."

"Were the halls deserted?"

"Yes—both deserted and dark. But just as I was slipping back the bolts of the front door, the door to the office was opened by an attendant and in the light that streamed out he could see me plainly. I tried to slip the last bolt before he could reach me, but it was stiff and I couldn't move it. With an oath he grabbed me by the arm and dragged me into the office. Both Dr. Zellar and Mr. Pollock were there, and he told them what I had been doing. At that Mr. Pollock grabbed me and shook me and demanded to know what I was up to. He hurt me and frightened me so, I couldn't think of anything to say and I just screamed, thinking that those outside would hear me and break in. They did hear me, for they began to hammer on the door and demand entrance, and I screamed again. But at that Mr. Pollock clapped his hand over my mouth and Dr. Zellar caught my wrists, and between them they dragged me into a little room beyond the office and flung me into a chair. Then I saw that Dr. Zellar had a revolver in his hand and he thrust it into my face, promising to 'do for me' if I made any noise. They went out and locked the door, but as soon as they were gone I ran to it and listened, and I heard the doctor tell his assistant (the one who had caught me at the door) to go upstairs and watch 'the girl'. Then he and Mr. Pollock had a conference and decided to let Dr. Foster and Mr. Langdon in, but to deny that Miss Page was there. 'I'll go upstairs and wait till you get rid of them,' said Mr. Pollock. Then I heard a door close and everything was quiet.

"Soon I heard Dr. Foster's voice saying, 'Miss Page has been forcibly dragged from my sanatorium and brought here. I demand her instant release, and I have my car outside to take her back to the hospital.' At that Dr. Zellar laughed sneeringly and said, 'Is it your usual method of getting patients to run about at night and kidnap them from rival sanatoriums? I could hear Dr. Foster give a little muttered oath of anger, but Mr. Langdon broke in sharply saying, 'This is no time for listening to any tomfool insults from you, Zellar—what we want is Miss Page, and by heaven, I'll get her out of here, if I have to kill you and break down every door in the place.' 'Even that wouldn't get her,' said Dr. Zellar, 'for this Miss Page, as you call her, is not here.' 'You lie!' shouted Langdon, 'we know she is. The nurse has already signalled us to that effect.' 'I'm afraid your friend has been drinking a little too much,' sneered Zellar, speaking apparently to Dr. Foster, for it was the latter who answered: 'I suppose,' he said drily, 'that you will deny also that a woman screamed to us for help a few minutes ago.' 'One of the patients had a nightmare,' said Zellar, but he spoke uneasily.

"Suddenly Mr. Langdon shouted, 'Nurse Walton! Nurse Walton!' And in answer I beat upon the door and cried, 'In here! In here!' Almost instantly it seemed I heard the sound of running feet, and the door was unlocked and I stumbled out almost into Mr. Langdon's arms. But before we could either of us move away from the spot Zellar said grimly, 'Stand where you are, all three of you!' And we saw that he was covering us with his revolver. Then there came a most terrible cry from upstairs—the long scream of a woman either half crazed or in deadly fear. Even Zellar was horrified by it, and his arm wavered a little as he turned his head. At that Mr. Langdon sprang upon him, and bore him back against the table. They fought desperately, both Dr. Foster and I trying to help, and at length Mr. Langdon succeeded in twisting the arm of Dr. Zellar so that his fingers went limp and the revolver fell to the floor. Dr. Foster snatched it up and Mr. Langdon cried, 'Keep that beast covered till I get Mary,' and went running out of the room and up the stairs. It was then that I remembered the two detectives and realized that we had help outside, so I hurried to the door and flung it open. They were right there, half crazy with anxiety, and when I shouted, 'Up stairs,' they went up two at a time with me close behind."

"Will you tell us, please, what you saw when you reached the upper landing?"

"We saw Mr. Langdon and Mr. Pollock on the floor engaged in a furious struggle, while from the door of Miss Page's room came the sound of little hands beating against the wood, and almost continuous screams or bursts of hysteric laughter, interspersed with oaths in a man's voice! The detectives went at once to Mr. Langdon's aid, and when they had seized Mr. Pollock one of them covered him with his revolver while the other ran with Mr. Langdon and myself to the door of Miss Page's room. It was locked, and our cries to Mary to let us in only brought more terrible screams from her, so the detective, warning us back, fired his revolver downward through the keyhole, shattering the lock, and we burst into the room.

"Miss Page was standing at the window sobbing and laughing and tearing at the iron bars with hands already cut and bleeding from her efforts. Half crouched by the bed, was the ugly attendant Dr. Zellar had sent to watch her, and lying shattered on the floor beside him was a whiskey bottle. He was obviously brutally drunk, but either Miss Page's madness or our entrance terrified him into a momentary sobriety, and as we ran towards Miss Page he darted out of the room."

"How long was it before Miss Page quieted down?"

"It was some hours. When we found that neither Mr. Langdon nor I was recognized by Miss Page I ran downstairs for Dr. Foster. As I came out in the hall the detective who was guarding Mr. Pollock turned towards me and the latter instantly leapt over the banisters and rushed into the office. The detective and I were close behind him, and as we reached the door we saw Mr. Pollock leap upon Dr. Foster and strike the revolver from his hand. Then he switched out the light and called to Zellar to 'come quick.' Before we could stop them both men ran out through one of the long windows."

"Miss Page was sobbing and laughing."

"Did you see either of them again?"

"No. We at once locked all the doors and windows and then Dr. Foster hurried upstairs to Miss Page. It was some hours before he could quiet her even with strong sedatives, and when at last she was asleep it was so near dawn that it seemed best for us all to stay right there until morning."

"Did you hear Dr. Foster give any opinion as to this second attack of madness on the part of Miss Page?"

"Yes. I asked him what could have caused it, and he pointed to the broken whiskey bottle, saying that the brutal attendant was undoubtedly drunk even before he had entered the room, and had probably continued drinking in Miss Page's presence. 'This,' he said, 'proves conclusively to me that Miss Page is suffering from what we term "repressed psychosis," superinduced by the sight of intoxication!'"

THE TRUTH ABOUT RHEUMATISM

Doctors have more kinds of theories about Rheumatism and its causes than there are days in a month.

Some doctors make the claim that what you call Rheumatism is something entirely different; that it is a germ disease.

But you, who are bent and sore and stiff and doubled up with pain, and can't sleep or enjoy life—you know that Rheumatism is a very real thing to you.

You need, most of all, the treatment that has helped, and perhaps cured, more people of Rheumatism than any other—the one that goes to the seat of the trouble; that loosens up the stiff joints, eases the pain and eradicates the effete, poisonous matter which clogs up your whole system.

This treatment is Dubl-R—remember the name—the double Rheumatism medicine that is recommended and sold by T. J. Evans, and nowhere else in Newark.

BE CLEAN INTERNALLY

Over 300,000 People Are Now Doing So.

For many years physicians have agreed that 95 per cent. of human ills was caused by accumulated waste in the Lower Intestine, that in our present way of living Nature could not remove all this waste without assistance, no matter how regular we might be; and that the poisons from this waste circulating through the blood pulled us away down below par and were responsible for many diseases of a serious nature.

During this time the "J. B. L. Cascade" for Internal Bathing has, because of their recommendation and those of its users, been steadily growing in favor.

Recently, however, the startling news which has been covering the country that great surgeons and specialists have been operating on the Lower Intestine in such serious diseases as Tuberculosis, and attributed such conditions of chronic ill health as Nervous Debility and Rheumatism to this cause, also saying that these poisons are favorable to the development of Cancer and Tuberculosis (as stated in a recent article in the New York Times), has caused Americans to become thoroughly awake to the importance of keeping this Lower Intestine free from all poisonous waste matter, and over 300,000 are now using Internal Baths.

If you try the "J. B. L. Cascade" you will find yourself always bright, confident and capable—the poisonous waste makes us bilious, blue, dull and nervous. Internal Baths are Nature's own cure for Constipation—just warm water properly applied. Drugs force Nature—the "J. B. L. Cascade" gently assists her.

ESTABLISHED IN 1820

Entered as Second Class Matter March 10, 1882, at the postoffice at Newark, Ohio, under Act of March 4, 1879.

A More Beautiful Newark.

This is to announce that beginning during the latter part of April, The Advocate will begin publishing a series of six feature editorials on "Beautifying the Home Town." All who hope to see Newark grow more attractive for residence purposes should buy The Advocate for this series.

These articles will be no mere sentimental rhapsodies on the effect of civic beauty. The subject will be taken up as a practical human problem, one beset with many obstacles of law, ownership of property, conflict of selfish and public interests, etc.

These problems will be handled by a gifted newspaper writer who has been in close touch with movements of this kind in other cities, so that the facts and ideas presented are not mere theorizing, but show the working of the City Beautiful idea in actual life.

Clean Streets and Alleys.

A party of women of Chicago's first ward observed April first by donning overalls and cleaning up dirty alleys. Chicago is not the only place where the men need assistance of this kind.

The officials who have charge of the streets of a town often act as if town cleanliness were a mere feminine fancy. The fact that they went over a street the day before is sufficient reason for not cleaning it again, even if it is just as dirty as it was before.

Some people seem to think they have sufficiently co-operated in the cleanliness movement, if they have removed unsightly refuse from the front yard to the rear.

If the streets of a town could be maintained in somewhat the same degree of order that prevails in our own houses, a town would look homelike and inviting both to strangers and old residents. Queerly enough, there are plenty of people who would not litter up their own rooms with waste paper, who do not hesitate to throw away refuse in the streets.

Arthur I. Vorys, former Republican national committeeman from Ohio and one of the delegates selected by Theodore Burton made a speech before the Pennsylvania Insurance Federation at Pittsburgh on March 29. He denounced the Ohio workmen's compensation act as radical and described this state as a "horrible example," the victim of socialistic impulse and a menace to insurance interests. He advised his hearers to resort to "preparedness" lest they too become victims of similar laws. This address is interesting in many respects but especially so because only a fortnight ago one of the high officials of the Pennsylvania state insurance department said that the employers' liability insurance companies were ready to spend millions to repeal the Ohio law. Mr. Vorys was state insurance commissioner under three governors and fought compensation tooth and toe nail. It is easy to conjecture what kind of a candidate and a platform Mr. Vorys will support at Chicago.

Why should Public Printer J. E. Cross be criticised for appointing his wife as chief clerk? Didn't the good young governor make his newhew, Hugh Buell, of Columbus, deputy state fire marshal And didn't State Oil Inspector James M. Carr appoint his own son, a student at Western Reserve university, as a special deputy in Cleveland at $1,200 a year? And isn't the brother-in-law of Secretary of State Charles Q. Hildebrant holding a chief clerkship under him? Didn't Mayor Royal C. Bigbee appoint his own son Cecil, director of safety, for this city? Why pick on a poor woman

"We are advertised by our loving friends," said Richmond in Shakespeare's tragedy of Richard III. Governor Willis can repeat it but he should add, "And they are being paid at the expense of the taxpayers." Forty press agents, count 'em, forty!

The fact that gasoline has gone up another five cents is no special reason why your best girl should suggest a nice long automobile ride.

The fact that the Mexicans will stand up heroically against our guns does not prove that they can resist our dollars with equal fortitude.

Admiral Fiske says twenty-five per cent of the navy money is wasted. This should spur on the politicians to get even more of it.

Rippling Rhymes

Marching On.

I have read a hundred essays on the Causes of the Fight, and every country's in the wrong, and all are in the right; the bones of countless butchered men are bleaching in the light, and Death goes marching on. The war was forced on yonder king, who couldn't dodge the scrap; and it was forced on t'other king, who is a peaceful chap; and meanwhile over every foot of Europe's soggy map, King Death is marching on. It seems a shame, when all the kings were suffering for peace, that war should spring its wrinkled front, and all its dogs release, that generals should wade around in blood and fur and grease, and Death go marching on. And still the soldiers fight and slay, their little wage to earn; and where the vine and figtree were, the lurid beacons burn; the sleepless children watch and wait for dads who won't return, and Death is marching on. It must have been spontaneous, the great and bloody game; if anyone's responsible, no man will take the blame; old Europe's littered with her dead, her blind and halt and lame, and Death goes marching on.

Then he got after him to wear a collar an' tie but Ev kep' his temper till yesterday when the boy says, "Oh, Father, you should imbibe your soup more quiet, and not take it from the end of the spoon but from the side." Welcome as Spring.

Editor Melting Pot:—

We were discussing this department of the Advocate last night and someone suggested that contributions were acceptable. Is this true?

A. G. B.

It is true that we welcome contributions, short ones and on almost any subject. You may have noticed that we have already had some from D. H. C., and others are promised by M. M. W., T. L. S., G. B. S and M. A. S. Up to this time we have regarded these people as truthful and trust we shall have no occasion to change our opinion.

Did You Know

That Washington Irving was born in the city of New York, April 3, 1783? His father, William Irving, came from Scotland. At the age of 16 Washington Irving entered a law office. When he was 21 he went to Europe where he traveled for three years. Upon his return to New York, then a town of 50,000, in 1807, he contributed a series of humorous essays to a periodical called "Salmigundi."

Having no inclination for law, he devoted his time to literature. In 1842 he was appointed minister to Spain. He spent the last years of his life at "Sunnyside," in his own "Sleepy Hollow" on the banks of the Hudson, near Tarrytown, where he died November 28, 1859. He was never married.

John Burroughs was born April 3, 1837, and Edward Everett Hale was born April 3, 1822.

The Humor of Yesterday.

Till the child was almost wild;
His anxious parents wondered
Why the bees pursued the child;
To diagnose, they summoned
Their physician, Dr. Ives,
"The reason, why is clear," he said,
"Your Willie has the hives."

Gentle Spring.

Who invented Spring, anyway? There is no such season in these parts, save in the dreams of mooning almanac makers. March, April and May—about this time build wood fires!—are flung together and called Spring. . . . Spring is as imaginary as the Equator. The vernal equinox legend is wearisome. You might as well pretend that to say "two and two are four" is a cure for chilblains. . . . The calendar must be reformed. Spring should begin with December, a decent, self-respecting, amiable, "likely" month.—New York Times.

Mr. Chairman—We second the motion.

An Easy Job.

"You saw him on his knees to her,
I heard," said Elmer Lees;
"Oh, no, you are mistaken, sir,
I saw her on his knees."

Freedom of the Press.

Our esteemed contemporary says that in reciting Sheridan's Ride at the Methodist church festival last week, we looked and acted like a jackass. We could retort in a way that would embitter the man's whole future, but we have learned to pass such things by. Suffice it to say that he is an infernal liar and a crawling scoundrel.—Leesville, Colo., Light.

Now doesn't that show a fine restraint? But we can't help wishing he had let himself go just a little. So that a decadent press might get a faint idea of what editorial vigor is really like.

It Might Have Been You!

Yesterday morning as Mr. George Sprague was leaving his residence he was accosted by a man who said:

"Mister, I'm looking for a carpenter with one leg up this street. Can you tell me where he lives?"

Mr. Sprague regarded him seriously for a moment and then gravely inquired, "Where is the other leg?"

PRIZE ESSAYS WRITTEN BY SCHOOL BOYS

William Hillman, R. D. No. 6, a freshman in the Newark high school, won first prize, $3, with his essay submitted to the "Dress-up" committee of the Newark Merchant's association. The prize essay follows:

"How to Beautify Newark."

In beautifying Newark a comparison may be made between a merchant and municipal fathers. The up-to-date merchant is always watching for suggestions. He keeps his store in a neat condition and the goods carefully and tastefully arranged. The merchant may make a good many sales on the condition of his store and stock.

If the streets of Newark were thoroughly cleaned it would add a great deal to the reputation of the city, because people coming into a strange city form their opinions from their first impressions. There is an old saying that our first impressions are our strongest ones.

Then, too, the sign-boards on the square and on East Main street are not very pleasing to look at from the Court House, and they show a lack of civic pride.

In Portland, Oregon, all people on the main streets of the residence section have beautified their city by planting rose bushes between the sidewalk and the curb in the parkway. Any one going to work or any visitors in the city are privileged to take a rose for their button-hole. On a summer morning it is a very beautiful sight to see all these roses in bloom. Why should not Newark do something along this line? Portland has won the title, "The City of Roses" because of this unique idea.

There are a great many suggestions that might be made any one of which would help to beautify Newark.

"The Advantages of Dressing Up."

Second prize, $2, was awarded to Wayne Jordan, eighth grade, Woodside school. His subject was "The Advantages of Dressing Up." The composition follows:

Complying with the request made by the Merchants' Association, I am glad to submit the following:

"Dress-up" week does not mean that once a year we should "dress up" our persons and properties and then pay no attention to them whatever until the next "dress up" week. Every week should be "dress up" week to the progressive citizen. The citizen should make use of every opportunity that presents itself in any way for civic improvement. But unfortunately all citizens are not public spirited enough to do this. They need something to stir them up or awaken them. This awakening is found in "dress up" week.

In considering the advantages of dressing up" let us first look at the situation from the standpoint of clothes. In business and every day life the well dressed man usually leads, not that clothes make the man. They do not, but they make him much more agreeable to his employer or employees, his customers and friends.

But we must not simply wear good clothes when we "dress up." We must make our homes and streets be in keeping with our clothes. They need to be "dressed up" as well as our bodies.

Newark is one of the best located towns in the state as far as railroads, interurban lines and state highways are concerned. Consequently there is much travel through our city. As a result many strangers form opinion (it is to be hoped that they are always good) about Newark. These opinions have a large influence on the welfare of our city.

For instance, a gentleman alights from an interurban car into a pool of mud and water, wades to the sidewalk, and walks up street, the walk is littered with papers, the stranger slips on a banana peel. If it is in the summer time he notices with disgust that the streets have not been swept but that the water wagon has been along and washed the dirt over to one side, changing it to mud, thus making it worse than it was before. That man immediately forms an opinion. He becomes a "knocker." Would it not pay to make this man and all other "knockers" "boosters"?

There is also much travel through our city in automobiles. Rough streets and mud holes do not make a very good impression on the motorist. They do not make him a "booster" by any means. We should at least make our streets as good as the roads that lead to them.

Strangers are not the only people benefitted by the "dressing up" of our streets. We make it much more comfortable for ourselves, for do not we use our streets more than anybody else? Perhaps one of the best advantages of cleaning up is the improvement of sanitary conditions.

The value of property is also greatly increased. No matter how much a house is worth nobody wants it if the surroundings are poor. We should all "dress up" our homes so that we may be able to point them out with a feeling of pride and satisfaction.

Benjamin Phillips, age 88, pleaded guilty at London sessions court to breaking a plate glass window worth $75 in Newington causeway. A list of previous convictions showed that he had spent half his life in prison. This was the seventh time he had broken this particular window.

WATCH ACID MOUTHS

Acid in the mouth is dangerous. It promotes decay of teeth. It may lead to pyorrhea and it causes ill health in many ways.

There is a sure, safe way to correct, cleanse and purify acid mouths. Nothing is superior to hyclorite, the remarkably effective antiseptic obtained at any drug store. It at once removes disease germs and stops decay. It cleanses, heals and purifies. It has no disagreeable taste and leaves the mouth clean and free from bad breath odors and removes acid.

Get a bottle of hyclorite, for it is economical and can be used for many purposes in the home.

JAPAN

IS COLONIZING ISLANDS IN SOUTH SEA CAPTURED FROM GERMANY.

Apparently Has no Intention of Withdrawing From the Ladrone or Marshall Islands.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

San Francisco, April 3.—That Japan is colonizing and apparently intends to retain the South Sea Islands captured during the present war from the Germans was the statement made here by Dr. Frederick Starr, professor of anthropology, University of Chicago, who is enroute to Chicago today from the Orient after six months research work in Japan and Korea.

"Japan," said Dr. Starr, "has no intention of withdrawing from the Ladrone or Marshall Islands which she has taken from Germany and which lie midway between the Philippines and Hawaii. She has already undertaken expensive schemes which refer to the postal service, telegraphs and cables of these possessions. She is sending settlers in quantity to them."

"Since the war began in Europe," continued Dr. Starr, "more than 1000 new millionaires have been made in Japan, extravagant ideas have taken possession of the Japan nation and a wave of speculation is sweeping over the country."

Dr. Starr said also that Japan's trade with India had increased enormously since the war and that in this development lay the possibility of future commercial competition with Great Britain.

Granville

(Special to the Advocate.)

Granville, O., April 3.—Prof. W. H. Johnson, head of the Latin Department in Denison University, is the author of "The War and World Opinion," which received favorable notice in the book review of Saturday's Dispatch. No mere review, however conscientious, can give an idea of the real merit of this article, which is one of the most vigorous and convincing that has yet appeared. It is within reach of every one, at only a nominal price. Attractively bound in a heavy illustrated cover this pamphlet should be upon every library table. One reading invites re-reading. Not only is it a severe arraignment, it is a literary gem. The facts are incontrovertible, the logic relentless, the conclusion inevitable, the author wields a practised pen and each sentence epitemizes a great situation. In these thirty-two pages are condensed arguments which, with less skillful handling, would be incomplete in twice the space. This article is bound to make a stir. It can not be overlooked nor ignored, whether by friend or foe. Every true patriot will be fired with new zeal in defense of American ideals and the indifferent will be roused from his apathy by a perusal of this latest and most vital presentation of the European situation as viewed by the rest of the world. On sale at the book stores.

Word has been received from Xenia that the Denison Glee Club which appeared there in concert Friday night, was greeted with an ovation from a large and enthusiastic audience. A reception in honor of the boys was held and expressions of appreciation for the splendid program rendered were showered upon them from all sides. On Saturday night a royal welcome awaited them in Dayton. The hall in which they sang was attractively decorated for the occasion, the stage well lighted, the seats all filled and the audience responsive. The two Dayton boys of the club were featured on the program. Gerald Athey, the leader who sang a solo was recalled half a dozen times by the delighted audience and Carl Thiele who sang in the quartet also received an ovation. The last number on the program "To Denison" brought the large number of enthusiastic Denisonians in the audience to their feet. On Sunday the club sang in the First Baptist church. On Saturday afternoon the boys were entertained at a reception in their honor given at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George McCann. Tonight they sing a return engagement in Middletown where they are favorites with the public, and where their success is assured.

Miss Gladys Spencer was soloist in the Baptist church on Sunday morning, giving an artistic interpretation of the soprano solo in the anthem, "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem," which was appealing in its expression of true worship and praise. Miss Spencer possesses a volce of good range volume and purity of tone, which she uses with taste and judgment and which has been heard too seldom in public.

Rev. Millard Brelsford continues his instruction class for school children in the lecture room of the Baptist church on Tuesdays at 3:45 p. m. Children of all denominations welcome.

Keep in mind the annual meeting of the Granville Public Library Association to be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the reading room of the Library. An interesting program the election of officers and a social hour will amply repay you.

Mrs. Charles B. White was greeted on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 by the largest class of children yet assembled in the Granville Library reading room for the children's story hour. The stories on Saturday, April 1, were all about "Mad Cap Fool." Conditions, which the young people found most diverting.

President C. W. Chamberlain went to Columbus on Saturday, April 1, where he delivered an address in the Grand Theatre before an audience of men on the topic: "Science and Religion,' which made a profound impression. Incidentally it might be well to recall the fact that before he was elected to the presidency of Denison University, Dr. Chamberlain enjoyed the reputation of being one of the foremost scientists in the country. Consequently the subject of his lecture was one with which he was amply able to deal.

Miss Ruth McKibben of Indianapolis arrived in Granville Saturday evening for a week's visit with her father, Dr. G. F. McKibben.

Mr. and Mrs. William Geach of Columbus were Granville visitors on Saturday.

Mrs. Millord Brelsford and son, Charles have been visiting at the Carhartt home in Coshocton for the past few days.

Mr. Harold Phillips the Doane Academy orator preached on Sunday in the Baptist church in Middletown where he was well received.

On account of the critical illness of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Owen, Mrs. Charles Carpenter of Chicago, was unable to accompany her husband to Granville to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Munroe Carpenter, held today at 2 o'clock p. m.

ALL NIGHT FIGHT IS REPORTED BY FRENCH OFFICE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, April 3, 12:45 P. M.—Fighting continued all night in the Verdun region east of the Meuse, between Douaumont and Vaux. The issue turned generally, the war office announcement of this afternoon says, in favor of the French who gained ground in the northern part of Caillette wood which were occupied by the Germans yesterday.

West of the river a bombardment was carried on near Haumont without effect.

The statement says that in yesterday's fighting the Germans lengthened their front of attack to about three kilometres (two miles).

WORKHOUSE GUARD ATTACKED BY PRISONER.

Zanesville, O., April 3.—Following a threat to kill and brutal attacks upon Guard S. H. Hogan, Linden avenue, in the cell house of the workhouse early Saturday evening the guard fired upon and slightly injured McArthy, 19, a Crestline prisoner, serving 195 days of housebreaking. One shot went wild, another passed through the muscles of the left arm and a third caused a slight flesh wound across the stomach. The prisoner was about to make a renewed attack by hurling an iron cuspidor at the guard's head when he was overpowered.

The president of a produce company at Phoenix, Ariz., got the cold storage habit so badly that he tried keeping cider. He has recently been arrested for violating the alcoholic beverage law, which is regretted at Phoenix, for he has been ardent as a "dry" worker.

GRIP AND NEURASTHENIA

There is a form of neurasthenia that follows the grip. Doctors call it "post-grippal" neurasthenia. One of the foremost medical authorities of New York city in a lecture in the international clinics, said:

"Broadly speaking, every victim of the grip will suffer from post-grippal neurasthenia also. Lowering of nervous tone with increased irritability is the most striking effect of the disease, languor of mind and body, disturbed, fitful sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere. The treatment calls for rest and a tonic."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a non-alcoholic tonic, are particularly suited for building up the blood and strengthening the nerves after an attack of the grip. The rich, red blood expels the lingering germs from the system and transforms despondent grip victims into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women.

If you have had the grip get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment at once.

On request we will send you a free pamphlet, "Building Up the Blood," which contains a chapter on the grip. Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

What Ails You?

The best time to cure a cough is when it starts. Ordinarily, a few doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a cough at the beginning. But even when the cough is deep-seated and the body is wasted by emaciation, "Medical Discovery" will in most cases effect a permanent cure.

Have you become run-down, weak, amaciated, pale after a long siege of colds? Does the skin show that the blood is thin and watery? Spring is the time when vitality is at its lowest ebb—clean house now—by ridding the body of its accumulated poisons. Refresh the blood with a stimulating tonic.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, free from alcohol or narcotics and extracted from roots and barks with pure glycerine, banishes from the blood all poison and impure matter,

Wooster, Ohio.—"I am very well pleased with 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had throat and lung trouble. Six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me so that I had no return for a long time. This was when we lived near Canton in Stark Co., Ohio. We are never without Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. We keep them in the house and use them for biliousness as they are needed. As our experience with these remedies covers over seventeen years, it ought to have weight as a recommendation."—MRS. J. H. CHRESTINE, South Grant Street, Wooster, Ohio.

The modern improvement in pills—Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They help Nature instead of fighting with her. Sick and nervous headache, biliousness, costiveness, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are relieved, prevented, cured.

WILSON

ONLY DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE TO BE VOTED UPON IN MICHIGAN.

Roosevelt Sends Word to Disregard Petitions Filed to Place His Name Upon Republican Ticket.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Detroit, April 3.—Michigan presidential primary law, enacted in 1912, was given its initial trial today. Electors of the various political parties went to the polls to register their preference for candidates who are expected to figure in the national conventions this summer.

The Progressive party—which swept the state four years ago—was without a candidate. Theodore Roosevelt notified the secretary of state to disregard the petitions which progressive leaders had filed to place his name on the primary ballot.

Woodrow Wilson is the only Democratic candidate.

Three names are in Republican ballot: William Alden Smith, U. S. Senator, of Grand Rapids; Henry Ford, of Detroit and William G. Simpson, of Detroit. The last named has been prominent in the Socialist and Progressive parties in Detroit.

William P. F. Ferguson, of Pennsylvania, is the candidate of the prohibition party. Backed seemingly by the entire democratic state administration, Edwin O. Wood of Flint, national committeeman, is attempting to prevent the leadership from passing into the hands of William A. Comstock, of Alpena.

Neither the Republicans or Progressives had more than one candidate for committeeman. Charles B. Warren, of Detroit, will be renominated by the Republicans. The Progressive candidate was Gustavus D. Pope, of Detroit.

Theatres

Alhambra Tonight and Tomorrow.

While Constance Collier the distinguished European star plays a most impressive Marcia in "The Code of Marcia Gray" the individual talents of the entire company make this Morosco picture live with the excellence of their portraying.

Almost the entire cast have had the benefit of the experience of years in the legitimate. The cast includes besides Constance Collier, the well known Forrest Stanley, Henry DeVere, Herbert Standing, Howard Davies, and Helen Jerome Eddy.

The ruined financier Gray is played with power and great register of emotions by DeVere. Forrest Stanley makes a most pleasing and likable bachelor-lover, while genial Howard Davies carries the heavy desperate character of Crane with realistic skill.

BILLS DUE COUNTY NEWSPAPERS FOR ADVERTISING THE STATE FAIR.

Secretary State Board of Agriculture Appeals to Emergency Board for $19,069.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, April 3.—Payment of all debts incurred for the State Fair last fall was assured today when the state board of emergency appropriations allowed $19,069 to meet the deficiency.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, April 3.—Secretary George A. Stauffer of the state board of agriculture, today made appeal to the emergency board for $19,069, with which to defray outstanding Ohio State Fair bills. In a letter to Attorney-General E. C. Turner, a member of the emergency board, Secretary Stauffer urged funds for the payment of the bills be provided to insure the success of this year's fair. The work of the agricultural department is greatly handicapped by the large amount of indebtedness, he stated.

The fact that the agricultural commission, which preceded the board of agriculture, neglected to make out a budget for the 1915 fair, leaving that task for the present board, which came into existence just five weeks before fair time, is held responsible for the large amount of debts contracted and still unpaid.

Two former requests for money with which to pay state fair bills have been turned down by the emergency board. It is understood, however, a majority of the board members is now favorable to payment being made.

Most of the unpaid bills are due country newspapers and advertising agencies for publicity given the fair.

Although the emergency board twice before refused to appropriate for the deficiency on the ground that the state board of agriculture exceeded its authority in incurring debts, exceeding its allowance. Secretary Gorge A. Stauffer of the board has insisted on meeting the bills.

The emergency board also appropriated $20,000 to aid weak school districts. The legislative appropriation for this purpose was underestimated. This action will eliminate the projected necessity of closing a few country schools in poor townships before the normal end of the school year.

Other appropriations were $5,000 for the building of a new laundry at the Massillon state hospital to replace that burned about a month ago; $500 for improvements at Kent Normal school and $500 to the state dental board for extra examinations.

Will Verify Statement

Mr. Philip Gelber, 545 Bushwick Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., will verify to anyone interested his endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In writing to the Pinus laboratories Mr. Gelber says:

"I suffered with gall-stones seven years — tried various remedies without satisfactory result — was induced to try Fruitola and Traxo. Glad to say I am now feeling better than at any time for years and heartily recommend Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola acts on the intestinal organs as a powerful lubricant—softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the accumulation with almost instant relief. Traxo is a tonic-alterative acting on the liver and stomach, and is especially recommended in connection with Fruitola to build up and restore the weakened, run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through representative druggists. In Newark they can be obtained at Evans' Drug Store, Warden Hotel Block.

Although the upper classes in South America live richly, even extravagantly in a large number of cases, the poverty of the peons is for the most part very deep, one result being an appalling rate of in-fant mortality, from 40 to 90 per cent dying before the age of 2.

Many a man goes down to defeat with a clearer conscience than he would have in climbing to victory.

Dayton Mothers Find Ideal Croup and Cold Treatment

Nothing to Swallow, You Just Rub it Over Throat and Chest—Relieves by Inhalation as a Vapor, and by Absorption Through the Skin.

Croup is Usually Relieved in Fifteen Minutes—Most Colds go over Night.

A few winters ago, when Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve was first introduced from the South, the local druggists presented complimentary jars to a few of their customers, requesting that this preparation be given a thorough trial, and the results reported. Below, we give a few reports from Dayton people.

Mothers who have never used Vick's Vap-O-Rub owe it to their children to give it at least one trial. The little chaps object so to swallowing medicine that it is a relief to have a preparation which you can just rub on over throat and chest. Then cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covering loose around the neck, as the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, all night long, carry the medication through the air passages to the lungs. Vick's won't blister, and is absolutely harmless to the smallest child. Here is what Dayton mothers say of it:

MRS. THOMAS JEFFERSON, 1634 Germantown St.:—

"My little boy was taken with a severe case of croup a few weeks ago, and after trying everything I knew without finding much relief, my druggist gave me a jar of Vick's Vap-O-Rub, which I used with splendid results. I also find it a fine remedy for headache, and shall always keep it in my home hereafter."

MRS. W. E. CALLOM, 1314 Wayne Avenue:—

"Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve is all that you claim it to be. We used it on our four year old daughter to break up a cold that had been running two months, and that seemed to defy two of our best doctors. I shall use it in all future cases."

MRS. JOS. W. CARR, 1224 S. Wayne Ave., writes:—

"I have tried your Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve for sore throat and colds, and think it is certainly excellent. It seems to penetrate, and give almost instant relief. I find it loosens the cold in the head by inhaling the vapors."

Vick's will be found superior to internal medicines for all forms of cold troubles, from head colds, asthmatic and catarrhal troubles, down to deep chest colds, grippe, bronchitis, or incipient pneumonia. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00, at all druggists.

Wall Street.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, April 3.—Prices evinced a higher tendency at today's opening but with the exceptions of the better known specialties no marked changes from last week's final quotations were registered. There were 1 to 2 point gains in American and Baldwin Locomotives, Crucible Steel, Colorado Fuel and Associated Oil, with new records for south Porto Rico sugar which gained 9½ to 219½ and Jewell tea on its rise of 1½ to 89. Disappointment over latest advices from Mexico was indicated by the backwardness of Mexican Petroleum and American Smelting, both, however, soon recovering.

Crucible, Kennecott Copper, the latter at the new record of 59, and American locomotive were the main features of the forenoon, in which the volume of trading steadily diminished. U. S. Steel was in moderate demand, rising fractionally to 83 and Industrial alcohol led issues of its particular class, advancing four to 159½. Varying degrees of strength were shown by Mercantile Marine preferred, Maxwell motors, American Cotton Oil, International paper preferred and International Nickel. Representative stocks were steady, with continued activity in Anglo-French 5's.

Dealings became more diversified later, with heavy tradinging in U. S. Steel at a higher level. The closing was strong.

Numerous specialties, including munitions, metals, industrials and equipments were variably higher today, with irregularity in rails.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Chicago, April 3.—Assertions that the domestic winter crop at present showed the lowest condition for any corresponding time since 1904, sent wheat prices today sharply upgrade. Opening prices which ranged from ½ to 2c higher with May at 1.16½ to 1.17, and July at 1.15⅛ to 1.16½, were followed by a rise to more than three cents above Saturday's finish and then a moderate reaction.

Prices closed stron ⅛ to 1⅞ net higher, with May at 1.20⅛ and July at 1.19⅞.

Corn went higher with wheat. There were also reports of continued large sales at Kansas City for shipment to Baltimore. After opening a shade to ¼c off, it higher the market scored some additional gains.

The close was firm, at ⅜@¾ to 1c net advance.

Oat rcflected the strength of other grain. A big elevator company led the buying.

Advances in quotations of hogs and cereals carried provisions upgrade. The market, however, was uneven and trade lighter.

NEW PHASE OF VERDUN FIGHT IS BEGINNING

[ASSOCIATED PRFSS TELEGRAM]

Paris, April 3, 5:40 a. m.—A new phase of the battle of Verdun has begun and the belief prevails that the violence of the latest attacks foreshadows another attempt by the Germans to rush the fortress with vast forces. New batteries of large calibre have been moved up closer to the French front and the German infantry has been rested and reorganized.

Yesterday's fighting on the whole was not unfavorable to the French, it is authoritatively stated. The object of the Germans was to clear the approach to Fort Douamont and 15,000 men were thrown forward on the mile and a half line between Douamont fort and the village of Vaux. The attacking forces succeeded in crossing a little ravine which hitherto had stopped them and in entering the Collette wood. Further east they dislodged the French from the last ruined houses of the village of Vaux, but the French positions were so placed as to make it practically impossible for the Germans to debouch from the village. Vigorous French counter-attacks drove them back to the upper fringe of Caillette wood.

The total result of the very formidable effort they had put forward was a gain for the Germans of about 500 yards of terrain, more than offset, it is affirmed, by the very heavy losses they had endured. On the west of the river, the Germans attacked the Avocourt blockhouse in a no less determined manner, but again met with complete failure, the observers declare.

Americans are the greatest meat eaters, the per capita consumption being 172 pounds a year in this country, 119 in England, 113 in Germany, 80 in France and Holland, 64 in Austria-Hungary, 50 in Russia and in Spain 49.

EARNINGS

OF RAILROADS NET. INCREASE OVER 50 PER CENT DURING FEBRUARY.

Greatest Increase Was in Eastern District, 90 Per Cent—Local and General News.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, April 3.—Prosperity of railroads throughout the country continues without abatement, according to preliminary reports for February made public today by interstate commerce commissions. Returns from ninety-six large roads show their net revenue increased from $25,000,000 in February, 1915, to $38,000,000 for February, 1916, more than fifty per cent. The greatest increase was in the eastern district and amounted to nearly 90 per cent.

General Wage Increase.

Effective last Saturday morning, April 1, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company granted an increase in wages to all men on the Baltimore & Ohio system who work at a monthly rate.

Locally the advance in wages will mean an increase from 4 to 10 per cent, and the effect of the increase will be shown in the next pay checks. The increase, company officials say, is along the lines of standardization of the salaries paid to monthly rate men, and will aim to connect the variation in rates of pay which was formerly obtained by monthly rate men over the entire system.

No figures are given as to the exact amount of the increase, and this will not be determined until the pay checks for April are received.

New Supply Train.

Commencing April 4, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company will add a new monthly function in the way of a supply train. The train will leave Bellaire early in the morning and will reach Barnsville the same day.

Later it will start over the Newark division and will be accompanied by the division superintendent and his staff. The train will consist of three carloads of supplies and a lifting device. It will gather up all the junk and debris along the route and will distribute supplies at all towers, crossings, terminals and stations.

Car Cleaner Injured.

Joe Oquat, employed as car cleaner for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company at the local depot, Sunday was injured in a fall from a ladder while cleaning the window of a coach. In falling the man struck his head on a rail, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the Sanitarium in Criss Brothers ambulance.

"Sid" Smith Improved.

The condition of Sidney B. Smith, well known Baltimore and Ohio switchman, who was struck by a switch engine Saturday, today was reported to be improved. Mr. Smith after throwing a switch, it is said, stepped in front of engine 1284, knocked to the ground, suffering an injury to his shoulder and minor bruises.

He was taken to his home in Bradley's ambulance and later removed to the Sanitarium Hospital physicians upon examination announced that the shoulder was not fractured.

Accepts New Position.

Samuel E. Corbin, who has been connected with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for the past fourteen years, has severed his connection with that company to accept a position as traveling passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo.

Large Rail Order.

The Baltimore and Ohio has ordered 50,000 tons of rails from the Carnegie Steel company, 15,000 tons from the Maryland Steel company and 10,000 tons from another company, and 1400 tons of bridge steel from the King Bridge Co.

Cars Derailed.

Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 105 this morning was delayed two hours in its arrival in Newark owing to two freight cars being derailed at Nashport. The accident was not serious and traffic was soon moving over this point.

SIDE ISSUE TO MAIN CRIME IN DR. WAITE CASE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, April 3.—A side issue of the main crime today occupied the attention of members of the district attorney's staff who are investigating the Peck murder case. Dr. Arthur Warren Waite has revealed almost every detail of how he planned to murder his fatehr-in-law and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Pack, and last night he admitted, according to his attorney, that he intended also to kill his wife, to remove the last obstacle between him and the Peck fortune. But Dr. Waite, apparently, does not know what became of part of the $9000 which he gave to Eugene O. Kane, to induce Kane to testify that he used arsenic in embalming Mr. Peck's body.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

CLEANSES THE LITTLE LIVER AND BOWELS AND THEY GET WELL QUICK.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caughte cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs" to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by 'California Fig Syrup Company."

Visited Cousin.
Harry Hobson of Pittsburgh, a civil engineer in the main offices of the Pennsylvania railway, was a visitor in the city Sunday, guest of his cousin, Dr. J. T. Lewis. Mr. Hobson stopped over on his way to Pittsburgh where he joins a party of government engineers and appraisers who are taking the valuation of the railroads of the country. So well pleased was he with the work of his niece, that he stayed over for the night shows.

Her April Fool Joke.
Several little girls were appropriately celebrating "April Fool's" day Saturday when one of the number, tiring of the salted candy and string tied to pocketbook jokes, went back home and borrowed her baby sister's cab. Placing her doll in the big cab and protecting it carefully with shade and covering, she had a lot of fun 'fooling" her friends who wanted to take a peep at baby sister.

Visited at Zanesville.
Walter "Cap" Wilson, the hustling employee of the Advocate office, was the guest of friends at Zanesville Sunday. The genial young man treated them to ice cream soda and also "blowed" himself to a couple of movie tickets and stated that he was bound to prove himself a true sport. Unfortunately "Cap" lost his return ticket and as he was a stranger in a strange city his friends are wondering how he managed to get back to the Licking capital in time to take up his duties this morning.

The petition states that the defendant has not accounted for same to plaintiff and the latter asks judgment in the above sum together with interest from February 8, 1913.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.
Oftimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and bothered me. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills greatly benefited me and after that I could do my housework as well as ever and I didn't suffer from kidney disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills made a lasting cure."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McVicker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

FAITH WAS WEAK BUT NERV-WORTH MADE IT STRONG

W. E. BAILEY'S ENDORSEMENT SHOWS HOW CHANGE CAME ABOUT.

The Following Statement, Made Some Time Ago by W. E. Bailey Is of Genuine Value.

"I must say, at first hearing of Nerv-Worth, I did not have any faith in it, as other things had failed, so I felt the same way about Nerv-Worth, but was finally persuaded to try a bottle. I tried it and am thankful to say have received most wonderful results.

"My trouble was extreme nervousness and sleeplessness. Before this trouble came on I had severe attacks of sick headache. At night I could not sleep and would have to get up and walk around to obtain relief. Also troubled with a quivering sensation in the legs and it often got so bad that I would have to keep moving around and I could not sit down with any ease whatever.

"The second bottle of Nerv-Worth did certainly convince me that Nerv-Worth was the medicine for my trouble, as the results have been most wonderful. I sleep good, my stomach is in much better condition, my nervousness is entirely gone and I feel as good as new once more. I cheerfully recommend Nerv-Worth to anyone troubled with nervous disorders.

(Signed) "W. E. Bailey."

NEWARK WOMEN ASKED TO RELIEF BELGIAN AND FRENCH WAR SUFFERERS

MRS. WILLIAM CUMMING STORY
PRESIDENT GENERAL, NATIONAL SOCIETY, DAUGHTERS AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Hetuck Chapter D. A. R. of Newark has been requested by the national organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution to take part in a campaign being made this week, which is national in its scope. The campaign is for the purpose of securing contribution for the relief of sufferers in Belgium and northern France.

The campaign will culminate with a "Flag (tag) Day" on Saturday, April 8, when all organizations of the D. A. R. are asked to sell these flags on the street. At a recent meeting of the local chapter the matter was brought up for discussion, and another meeting has been called for today. Hetuck chapter will co-operate in the work, but the plan has not yet been decided upon and it is not yet known whether the "Flag Day" will be observed by them, however they will participate in so meritorious a movement.

To uphold the spirit of their organization and the ideals for which their grandfathers fought, an army of 100,000 American women, Daughters of the American Revolution have started a nation-wide campaign for contributions to relieve the sufferings of the 3,000,000 destitute non-combatants in Belgium and Northern France. Never before in the history of the world has such a concentrated physical effort on so vast a scale been made by women. The scope of this unprecedented movement in humanity's cause will cover every point of population and every line of human endeavor in the country.

The campaign will culminate in "Flag (Tag) Day," on Saturday, April 8th, King Albert's birthday. Ten million miniature Belgium flags will be distributed so that the public may concentrate on making contributions to provide clothing and food for the women and children in the occupied portions of the war racked countries. It is the largest number of flags ever printed for any charitable work. The emblems are to be distributed for an offering, the minimum amount of which is seven cents, the cost of a ration for one Belgian for one day.

Mrs. William C. Story, president of the D. A. R., on behalf of the National Board of the Society, said:

"The National Board of our Society has decided on a Belgum Flag Day, to be held on the anniversary of King Albert's birthday, the 8th of April. We are working directly through our 100,000 members. These women will organize their friends into little bands and stand on every street corner, and in front of every office building and railroad station and every theatre, and if necessary make a house to house canvas, in almost every city and town in the country and sell Belgian flags to help the innocent sufferers in Belgium and Northern France."

A feature of the Flag (Tag) Day, next Saturday will be the dress of the workers. They will appear in white and wear the Belgium colors on their hats and as waist bands.

METHODS OF HIRING MURDERERS TO BE PUT IN EVIDENCE.

New York, April 3.—Testimony as to methods of hiring murderers will be presented at the trials of the alleged slayers of Barnet Baff, which are on today's calendar in the supreme court. Baff, a wholesale poultry dealer, who had incurred the hostility of some of his business rivals, was shot and killed as he left his store on the night of Nov. 24, 1914.

The authorities assert they have witnesses who will testify that $4500 was collected to pay for Baff's murder, that it was given to a man who acted as hiring agent in many murder conspiracies and this agent picked the murderers through "civil service system," by which men were selected for their ability to kill quickly and efficiently.
